

Comprehensive evaluation of existing safety and compliance programs

- OSHA compliance
- Physical hazards in the workplace
- Work practices actually being followed
- Employee training received
- Safety culture
- Supervisory capacity

Damage control after an incident

- Incident analysis
- Recommendations for corrective actions
- Available for urgent situations
- Communication with insurance carriers and regulatory agencies

Conduct safety training seminars

Proactive planning

- Assess an activity or work area that is cause for concern
- Help establish a specific policy or procedure
- Provide training on topics such as supervisory skills, safe equipment operation
- Develop procedures for administering an effective safety committee

Support employers with a seasonal workforce

- Help ensure crew safety and compliance

Risk Management Resources, Inc.

Kirk Lloyd, President

My entire life experience has prepared me to serve as a consultant to the agri-business community. I was raised in an agricultural environment, earned my bachelor's degree in Agricultural Economics, and have devoted my professional career to serving agri-business here in the Northwest. I have 20 years of experience working in safety and compliance specific to this industry. I have enjoyed the opportunity to work with a wide range of clients from small family farms to some of the largest agri-business operations in the region.

While some consultants might be tempted to create dependency relationships with their clients to ensure an ongoing need for their services, I am strongly opposed to that approach. I want my clients to obtain the skills, knowledge, and confidence to become increasingly less dependent on outside services. I collaborate with my clients to develop custom solutions that fit their needs.

My business practices are guided by my own family experience with agri-business over many generations—I treat my clients the same way that I would want my parents and siblings treated by the professionals they do business with. Respect, honesty, and a good value received for money spent, are the foundations on which I've built my business reputation.

I look forward to the opportunity to work with you.

Kirk Lloyd, President
Risk Management Resources, Inc.
RiskMgt4Ag@aol.com
503-371-9554